COVER LETTER

Dear Hiring Manager,

I identify as an autodidact because I learn by doing and one thing I have developed well is how to code. I have been a Web Developer Intern at two words digital agency for almost year and a half. I work on WordPress applications to legacy applications that are in need of maintenance using PHP, Javascript, HTML, and CSS. I might work with PHP but it is all knowledge derived and inherited from learning with my preferred programming language, Ruby. I have also done design work in the past such as full website designs, logos, course certificates, and icons. I'm currently studying Computer Science at Rutgers University.

Ruby is the foundation of the modes that I utilize to build the majority of my side projects from frameworks like Sinatra or Ruby on Rails to small scripts made with gems. Although I prefer Ruby, I have worked with other languages like C++, Golang, and Javascript. My current project is a web scraper that will serve as the base for an unofficial API of a popular website. The official API is very limited and doesn't serve my needs, so I decided to make one myself. I have examples of my school work and side projects publicly available on my GitHub account. I look forward to hearing from you and hopefully contributing my skills to the XO Group. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Respectfully,

BERNIN A. UBEN
